For a long time, I believed the problem was me.

| Nonmembers click here

Every time I uploaded a photo and generated a “professional” AI portrait, something felt wrong. The lighting looked dramatic. The skin looked artificial. The face looked familiar, but not mine. The image was impressive, yes — but it didn’t feel real.

I tried everything people recommended. Viral prompts. Paid “premium” prompt packs. Studio keywords. Cinematic lighting tricks. Each attempt looked slightly better than the last, yet none of them solved the core issue.

The identity was always lost.

After more than 500 failed prompts, I realized the uncomfortable truth:

Most AI portrait prompts are not written by photographers. They're written by designers trying to impress the model.

That's when I stopped chasing beauty — and started chasing authenticity.

I began asking a different question:

What would a real professional photographer care about first?

Not effects.

Not drama.

Not “wow”.

A real photographer protects identity before touching anything else.

Once I understood that, the prompt almost wrote itself.

Here Is the Exact Prompt That Changed Everything

Below is the master prompt I now use to generate clean, realistic, studio-quality portraits that preserve identity and look genuinely professional.

You can copy it as-is and adapt the placeholders to your needs.

Before you leave, I want to ask for one small thing.

This prompt didn't come from a single lucky try. It came from hundreds of failed attempts, frustration, learning, and quiet experimentation. I shared it openly because it genuinely helped me — and I believe it can help others too.

If you try this prompt, please leave one comment and tell me your experience. What worked for you? What surprised you? What didn't? Even a short line means more than you think.

Your comments tell me whether this kind of deep, practical work is actually useful. And if I see real interest and feedback, I'll keep creating more prompts like this — refined, tested, and shared freely — just like this one.

Thank you for reading, and thank you for being part of the process.

I used your prompt. What didn't work is subject had huge smile and showing teeth with dimples and wrinkles. AI smoothed out the face, smile had no dimples or teeth. Thanks for the prompt. I will definitely continue to use it.
